Back by popular demand will be the "Anything But" competition Friday night allowing the cook teams to show off their culinary skills. So plan to WOW the croud with your culinary delight.

This is an optional event for the cook teams. "Anything But" is defined by Hog on the Hill BBQ Event to include any meat other than Pork shoulder and/or Boston Butts that will be the judged category to be held on Saturday. "Anything But" PORK SHOULDER, BOSTON BUTTS, all other parts of the pig OK. Sea food, turkey, wild game, alligator, frog legs, ostrich, etc.-just "Anything But" is allowed in the contest. Just let your imagination go wild.

Recipes may be marinated or injected, and this may be done before arrival. Recipe may be baked, broiled, barbecued, grilled, fried, etc. Recipe may include garnish. Garnish is anything that is not essential to the taste.

All cooking and preparation, with the exception of marinating, will be done on the premise. All cooking to be done on generally accepted cookers and/or grills normally associated with barbecue cook-off.

Entrants must be competing in the Hog on the Hill BBQ Cook Off contest. The "Anything But" entry must be the work of an individual team.

Turn in for the "Anything But" is 7:00pm Friday night. Entrants must prepare a minimum of 100 2oz samples to be given out by ticket. The CDDA will provide up to 100 2oz solo cups for presentation, If your entry requires something else to be served please plan to provide the needed container. All 100 samples should be representative of the items submitted to the judges. Substitutions are strictly forbidden. Representatives of the CDDA will Monitor to ensure all 100 samples are similar. Teams found offering something different to the public from what they offer to the Judge will be disqualified from the Anything Butt Competition.

Judging will be on Friday night using the "Blind Judge" technique. The entry (8 samples for the judges) will be submitted in a numbered container provided by contest organizer. A 9" x 9" standard box will be offered. A judging team of at least 5 judges will judge entries. The score will be based on "Taster's Choice". The entry with the best score will be designated as the winner. In the event of a tie, prize money will be divided equally.

The "Anything But" winner will be announced at 2pm Saturday- Prize Money 1st $500 2nd $250 and 3rd $100.
